Headmaster's Corner

As we approach December we recognize that these days can be among the most difficult to keep our focus on learning. Which makes it all the more important that we teachers, and parents, persevere in setting a good example of the importance of reading, doing our homework well, and staying on task at school.

Encourage one another. Every day is a new day to do better.

And whatever we do, let's surround our family with love, forgiveness, virtue, and joy!
