THE DESERT

A desert is an area that is extremely dry with very little rainfall. There are many different types of deserts, not all are hot and sandy. Some deserts are cool or cold. Deserts are found on many continents. Antarctica is considered a frozen desert!

Many deserts have rivers or oases flowing through them. After the sun goes down, the desert can get very cold. The Sahara Desert located in Africa is the world's biggest desert! It is hot there every day of the year and can get over 130 degrees Fahrenheit. Despite the dry conditions, many creatures live there including wild cats, camels, kangaroos, antelopes, wolves, lizards, scorpions, snakes, birds, and lots of insects.

1. How do you think animals that live in the desert find water?

The White House

The White House is where the president of the United States and his family live while the president is in office. It is located at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, in Washington, D.C. It has been the home of presidents since the year 1800, when John Adams was president. It was originally called The President's House. George Washington chose where the house would be built and its design, but he never actually lived in it. The White House is a mansion with many rooms, and beautiful lawns and gardens. The president's Oval Office, is in the White House.
