

How Does Read-A-Thon Work

Read-A-Thon is a day for students and families to celebrate their passion for books and literature.

Read-A-Thon is our foundational event where students seek sponsorships from those dedicated to helping Archway Glendale.

Students and faculty can dress up as a literary or historical figure, then enjoy a day full of reading and other fun literacy related activities.

Prizes will be awarded to each grade level for costumes (truest to character, most resourceful, and most creative) and for the class with the highest participation!

Read-A-Thon is a joyous tradition where students and families can celebrate their passion for books and literature. We hope you are as excited as we are!

How To Make Read-A-Thon Successful

Donations can be made by check, cash, or online at archwayglendale.org/PSO or by scanning the QR code below.

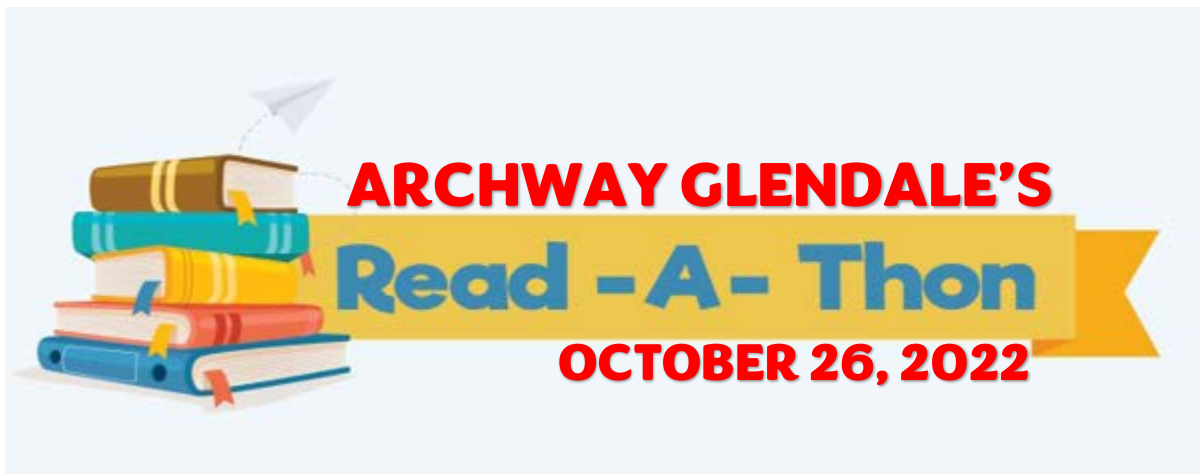

You may pick up additional materials in the Archway Glendale office or print them at archwayglendale.org/PSO.

All sponsor information needs to be included on the Read-A-Thon Sponsor Sheet.

To be eligible for prizes students need to return sponsor sheets to their home room teachers on October 26th, along with any money collected.

If you have any questions, please contact the PSO at ArchwayGlendalePSO@gmail.com.

Read-A-Thon Dress-Up Day Guidelines

1. You are NOT required to dress up.
2. Costumes need to be cleared with your homeroom teacher by October 18th.
3. Your costume must be a literary/historical figure that is part of the Archway Glendale curriculum or a character from a book in the library.
4. Your costume needs to follow the same guidelines as our uniform policy.
5. Items in your costume should not have any logos, brand names, and/or pop culture on them.
6. You may wear non-uniform shoes (such as sandals), provided that they are appropriate for your character, and safe to play in on the playground.
7. Small props are allowed but should be put away during class. Please no props depicting weapons.
8. Students who do not follow the costume guidelines may be sent home.
